I agree....it does not matter if this is a new account, we still must have some degree of monitoring, it is not intended to be an unlimited flow of CS. These numbers require some justification, beyond that of "being a new account". I will contact the VPDM and further discuss.

Robbie,

As we discussed last week the two accounts are reaching extremely high dosage units of oxycodone products. I think by allowing the division to continue releasing these orders is not in our best interest. Doug states in the e-mail below that once their 120 days is over and they are held in CSOMP they will request script data. I feel that something needs to be done now. By allowing them to continue to release these orders I think we are putting ourselves at risk. Your thoughts?

PJ,

Thank you for the update.

The report that you sent us is not the same report that I see each day. Please let us know what the discipline was for pharmacist that had license suspended. Once these new accounts pass 120 days, they will appear in the reports that I see daily and based on their current purchasing trends we will need to request script data from them. In the Suspended Orders and Suspended Orders not Released reports it would be helpful to see new accounts even if we are releasing orders.

All,

I have attached the CSOMP reports for two new accounts. Goodman Drugs, 40000567 and S & K Pharmacy, 40000561. The dosage units for both of these accounts is high, especially for Goodman. They are up over 200,000 du for the past 30 days. I am still in the process of reviewing the due diligence for both of these accounts. The pharmacist for Goodman has had past discipline including having his pharmacy license suspended. I e-mailed Jeff a couple of days ago to determine if these accounts were both primary with us and he stated that they were. At this time neither one of them are a very large account. I am just making you all aware because once they are no longer considered a new account their orders more than likely are going to be held by CSOMP and we are going to need to have additional information provided in order to release their orders. If you have any additional information to provide on either of the accounts please do so.

Thanks and have a great weekend!
